ABSTRACT

SMK Gondang Wonopringgo faces limitations in promotional media that can convey information attractively and in detail. To address this need, a multimedia-based company profile was designed and produced to deliver comprehensive information about the school's facilities, vocational programs, and advantages. The video production employed the Multimedia Development Life Cycle (MDLC) method, which includes six stages: concept, design, material collecting, assembly, testing, and distribution. The footage was captured using cinematic techniques, including aerial footage with drones, while the editing process utilized Adobe Premiere and After Effects. Testing was conducted through User Acceptance Testing (UAT) using usability testing indicators, covering learnability, memorability, efficiency, errors, and satisfaction, involving the principal and the school admission team. The results indicate that the video successfully fulfills the school's promotional needs and attracts prospective students. This company profile is expected to expand the reach of information about SMK Gondang Wonopringgo through digital platforms, particularly YouTube.
